DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Taussig et al. US 6,552,409.

Taussig et al. discloses a digital circuitry system including a memory module having a plurality of stackable cross-point memory arrays stacked so as to have interconnection in unitary package, a plurality of conductive pads, the pads adapted for providing the interconnection of the stacked cross-point memory arrays through a patterned waffle structure, wherein the waffle structure of the pads is formed from at least two separately patterned groupings (802,804) of layered materials which are combined together, wherein at least one of the layered materials is formed from the application of at least one thin film on a flexible substrate, and combining together includes in substantially the same planar direction, at a substantially orthogonal juxtaposition (see figs. 16-25 and related text).

The applied reference has a common assignee with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
